

Sensory Research Manager – Qualitative

Oxfordshire to c£40k + Car Allowance + Bonus

HP13168

Fantastic opportunity to build on your Qualitative Sensory Research knowledge in an interested in and varied client facing role. The role is based in Oxfordshire with regular trips into London and occasional international travel, you need to be able to be flexible to accommodate these aspects of the role.

The job:

- varied client projects proving sensory perspective to qualitative investigations
- using qualitative consumer science techniques to build on sensory data
- moderating focus groups, conducting in –depth interviews
- liaising with international agencies and attending international field work when required
- analysis and interpretation of sensory data
- run sensory panel sessions occasionally.

The person:

- experienced sensory scientist with strong data analysis skills
- high level of interest in consumer research
- experienced in Sensory Moderation, Sensory Acuity
- excellent Sensory Analysis and data Interpretation skills
- a great communicator who can work with minimal supervision on client focused and creative projects
- working as part of a small team with sometimes long hours, anti-social hours and international travel – must be able to offer flexibility

The benefits:

- Great Salary, Car Allowance and Bonus.
- Pension and Private Health kick in after a qualifying period
- Holidays start at 25 days per year and rise to 28 days with length of service.

Interested parties should apply with a full CV in word format adrienne.heasley@sssltd.com